Ready Steady Flockdown

Being unable to hold any poultry gatherings, we've managed to get some Guest Speakers from Animal and Plant Health Agency (APHA) to come along on Saturday & Sunday at the South of England Show to do talks on biosecurity, and avian influenza.

Our speakers will be holding a total of 3 talks over the two days, with a show organiser/exhibitor specific one on the day of our egg show. The talks will be held in the Poultry Marquee lasting roughly 1hour with time allowed after for a Q&A session. The talks are free, and no booking is required, however there is a fee to enter the showground. If you are interested in attending any of these talks, and are on a Poultry Show Committee, or Breed Club Secretary please email david@avpfs.co.uk for information on complimentary tickets please be aware these tickets are limited.

Get Biosecure for winter

10:30am* & 2:00pm*

The get biosecure for winter is aimed at everybody who keeps poultry from backyard and smallholders to commercial. It will cover the essentials for preparing your flock for winter, discussing housing, enrichment, home biosecurity and basic welfare. There will also be a virus overview of what is H5N1 and its clinical signs – there may be some disturbing images.

Bird Gathering Guidance

10:00am*

The Bird gathering guidance will be heavily geared towards bird gatherings (sales, auctions etc...) organisers and exhibitors, but equally beneficial for hobby keepers. Our speakers will touch on key areas such as costs in event of an outbreak at a show, and what to do if there is a suspected outbreak. There will also be a refresh section on the general licence, show paperwork and contingency planning.

Times are subject to change and will be confirmed 1 week before event.*

Hatching Eggs

If you'd like to sell hatching eggs, please contact us to let us know by email or telephone, or on your egg show entry sheet Below are the rules for selling hatching eggs.

- When selling hatching eggs, they must be no more than 5 days old and should be proven to be fertile (that you have hatched from the same stock this year).
- They must be from birds who have a cockerel running with them for sufficient time to fertilise eggs provided for sale.
- All boxes must be marked with the breeder's name and telephone number. We expect providers of fertile eggs to replace eggs where the WHOLE box is shown to be infertile but not those which have failed during incubation.
- If you are selling eggs from unproven pens of birds, then this must be indicated on your box, so the buyer is aware.

Sales Board

If you have surplus stock and would like to advertise, please email, or post an advert to us, and we will pin it on the sales board for the show.
